On the image, there is a page from a document that contains statistical data related to farm expenditures and hired workers from 1930 to 1964. The data is presented in tables with various categories and figures, showcasing expenditures by amount per farm from 1930 to 1964. The tables are detailed with specific figures and breakdowns for different types of farms, expenditures, and hired workers. The data is organized to provide a comprehensive view of the agricultural expenditure trends over the years. The document seems to be part of a larger report or study, given the extent and depth of the information presented.